First album on new label

The Very End release new album "Zeitgeist" alongside video for title track

The Very End celebrate the release of their new album "Zeitgeist" with a video clip for the eponymous song. Coming May 14th, 2021, this album is the first one with a new line-up - and with Apostasy Records it hits home under a new label, too. The band's fourth studio album moreover stands out from its predecessors with a German song.

The band has already released three songs including video: "Light The Lows", "The Day It All Went Black" and "Until There's Nothing Left of Us". The latter has an overall apocalyptic mood, the world is on the verge of demise: "The atmosphere also happens to fit the current zeitgeist of the pandemic," says guitarist René Bogdanski.

Just in time for the album's release, The Very End are now putting out another video for the title track "Zeitgeist" - the musicians' first German song. "Since some reviewers thought they had to diss the opener of our last album 'Turn Off The World' because of its four lines of German lyrics, we wanted to write a song with only German lyrics for the next album," says singer Björn Gooßes.

First album with a new line-up and a new label

"We are always trying new things - but first off we were able to carve out the already existing trademarks more strongly and simply write the best songs in the band's history", Björn Gooßes continues. In the current band constellation that wasn't a challenge. Since the last album, Marc Bräutigam (guitar, guitarist from Exumer) and Jerome Reil (drums, son of Kreator drummer Jürgen "Ventor" Reil) have been part of the line-up. The band produced the album together with Cornelius Rambadt (Bonded, Disbelief, Sodom...), who already worked with The Very End on their debut "Vs. Life". As with the two previous albums, mastering duties were assigned to Dennis Koehne (Caliban, Lacuna Coil, Melechesh, Orden Ogan ...). René Bogdanski emphasizes the successful support of the new label Apostasy Records: "We are happy that the cooperation is going so smoothly despite the pandemic."

Album available now

The album "Zeitgeist" is being released in different formats. It is available as a CD digipak and as a limited vinyl LP in cream-white, blood-red and classic black. The cream-white version is available exclusively from EMP. There are also exclusive bundle offers including a special shirt artwork. In addition, there is a limited wooden box of "Zeitgeist" including transparent-black marbled gatefold vinyl, a signed autograph card, a guitar pick, a patch and on top: a piece of bandage of the original artwork including a hand-numbered certificate of authenticity.
